AIPH nominations

By Iris de Waal

At the end of January, part of the Herburg Roses and Nini team took the stage in Germany during the AIPH awards ceremony. Although we did not take home the awards this time, we are extremely proud of our two nominations in the categories Sustainability and Cut Flowers and Bulbs.

The team was recognised for its efforts in innovation in sea freight, the ambition towards chemical-free cultivation, and our social projects: the Herburg Roses Special Needs School and the Nini daycare.

On the same day, we launched our new website, fully focused on sharing our honest story. It also provides more background information on sustainability topics, including a clear explanation of the Fairtrade Premium and the committees of colleagues specialising in key areas such as Fire Safety and Gender.

Soon, we will also offer the opportunity to visit your office to present our sustainability initiatives and answer your questions.
